Description Summary

The U.S. Mint Christian Coin Collectors list is a unique database of coin collectors who are Catholic and or Christian. These collectors fall into a â€œChristian/Religionâ€ coin collecting niche within the numismatics community, they focus on coins that have historical or religious significance to Christianity. This might include ancient coins from biblical times, coins featuring Christian symbols or inscriptions, or coins issued by historically significant Christian figures or states. Collectors in this field are often interested in the historical and religious context of the coins, in addition to their numismatic value. The practice combines interests in history, religion, and coin collecting, offering a unique perspective on the material culture of Christian history

How Our Data is Compiled

The data is aggregated and continuously updated. It is also enhanced with data from our consumer database to ensure completeness and selectability. Key elements of standardization include the National Change of Address (NCOAÂ®LinkÂ®), Locatable Address Conversion System (LACSLinkÂ®), and Coding Accuracy Support System (CASSÂ®). We also process our entire database against the Direct Marketing Associationâ€™s National â€œDo Not Mailâ€ Suppression File and a National Deceased Database from the Social Security Administration, ensuring up-to-date and respectful marketing practices.

Consider the Facts

- Historical Focus: Coins from key Christian periods, like the Byzantine Empire, early Christian Roman times, or medieval Christian states, dating back to Jesus and the early Church, offering religious and historical significance.
- Religious Symbols: Collectors seek coins with Christian symbols, crosses, saints, or inscriptions in Greek or Latin
- Rarity and Value: Highly prized coins include those with limited minting, excellent preservation, or unique historical connections to notable Christian figures.
